

Teaching Interests: Microeconomic Theory, Mathematical Economics, Game Theory, Industrial Economics, Mechanism Design.

Courses Taught Academic Year 2008/2009

Fall 2008

Ph.D. Level Industrial Economics (ECON 6461)

Ph.D. Level Mathematical Economics (ECON 6301)

Spring 2009

Game Theory with Applications to the Natural and Social Sciences-Honors (ECON 1008)-course developed for Honors program.

Game Theory and Mechanism Design (ECON 3498)- new course developed for economics department.

Courses Taught by Institution (1991-present):

Fall 2001-- present Department of Economics, University of Connecticut

Undergraduate Courses:

Intermediate Microeconomic Theory; Game Theory with Applications to the Natural and Social Sciences (100-level general education course. I received grant money from the University of Connecticut to develop this course); Game Theory and Market Design: A Case Study of the Deregulated Electricity Market and Beyond (Course developed under the EPNES grant. Team taught with Peter Luh (PI), department of electrical and computer engineering, University of Connecticut; Government and Business.

Graduate Courses:

Ph.D. level Microeconomic Theory (II), Ph.D. level Industrial Economics, Ph.D. level Mathematical Economics (I and II).

Spring 2001 Department of Economics University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee

Undergraduate Courses:

Intermediate Microeconomic Theory.

Graduate Courses:

Ph.D. level Game Theory.

Fall 2000 Krannert Graduate School of Management, Purdue University

Undergraduate Courses:

Intermediate Microeconomic Theory, Industrial Economics.

1997-2001 Economics Department Royal Holloway, University of London

Undergraduate Courses:

Intermediate Microeconomic Theory, Industrial Organization.

1995-1997 Department of Economics, Vassar College

Undergraduate Courses:

Principles of Microeconomics, Industrial Organization, Internal Organization of the Firm, (developed course for the department), Game Theory (developed course for the department).

1991-1995 Department of Economics, Finance and Legal Studies, University of Alabama

Undergraduate Courses:

Intermediate Microeconomic Theory, Principles of Microeconomics.

Graduate Courses:

Ph.D. level Microeconomic Theory (I), Ph.D. level Industrial Economics.

Spring 1991 Department of Economics, University of Wisconsin-Madison

Undergraduate Courses:

Principles of Microeconomics, Industrial Organization.